All

I promised to get back to you earlier today with a decision on this but unfortunately did not get a decision until now. We are holding on posting anything on the web until the full unified command structure is in place. At that time a joint decision among the unified command (R6, 8,9) PADs/PIOs and incident commanders.

I know you are getting requests but please hang tight until this structure is in place for decision making. No one here has reviewed Deb's presentation so that should also be part of the responsibilities of this joint command.

The attached Fact Sheets are the latest from R8 perspective with input from PADs in R6 and 9 so please replace the versions sent out last night (changes include removing Region 8 from the header and removing the extra million from the 3,043,067 million gallons). Field data and sampling locations are not changed from what I sent before. These still need to be on hold for unified command decision.

Let me know if you have questions.

Sandy
